Now With F.M.I.

AWW, IT'S NOT HOT. . .
...It's ridiculous.
Everybody remembers the trick about frying eggs on the sidewalk to demonstrate how high the temperatures are.

I'll bet we could do one better.

I'll bet that on one of these 100 degree days, and it was 112 somewhere in the Upper Midwest last week, we could crack eggs and toss the yolks off the top of the Courthouse and they'd be scrambled and fried before they hit the sidewalk.

I'll bet we need a better joke about how hot it is.

NOW-NOW-NOW-

If you wonder why newspapers are higher, magazines are higher or anything in print is higher, it is the cost of newsprint and the U. S. mails, among other factors.

The newest proposal by the Postal Service's rate-makers is a 29 percent increase in regular second class delivery for out-of-county, about 10 percent in county.

Media people are getting closer to looking for alternative ways of distribution. People don't look quite so quizzical when I talk about electronic transmission of newspapers.

But it doesn't solve the problems of the next 25 years during which the print media will remain in print, probably going to yet another means of printing, xerography, which copying machines already employ.

The newspaper of the future is going to be more of an information center than machinery and plant. It will be memory bank and some sort of distribution system.

Which is nice to contemplate. The way things go, however, a newspaper at the newsstand someday will cost 25 to 50 cents, and the dailies already get 50 cents or more for a Sunday edition.

Your Herald remains at 15 cents on the newsstand and a lot less through annual subscription. But given the forces at work, it is but a matter of time until that will change.

Finance Bill Aids Schools

The school finance bill passed by the Texas Legislature will mean more aid for Cameron schools, and thus prevent an increase in taxes for the coming year, according to Supt. Buddy Dulin.

The Cameron school district should receive $1,199,000 under the Foundation program, which is an increase of $197,500 over what it received in state funds last year.

The schools local fund share on the cost of the Foundation program was reduced $107,900, Dulin said, and the district will receive $92,600 in equalization funds, an increase of $54,500. Those funds are for districts that have below-average taxable wealth.

Dulin said the district's Foundation program costs are $1,248,300, with the schools picking up the difference between that and the $1,199,000 from the state.

He emphasized that increases in teachers salaries, rising utility bills, and inflation are expected to swallow most of the extra funds, and no tax cut is possible.

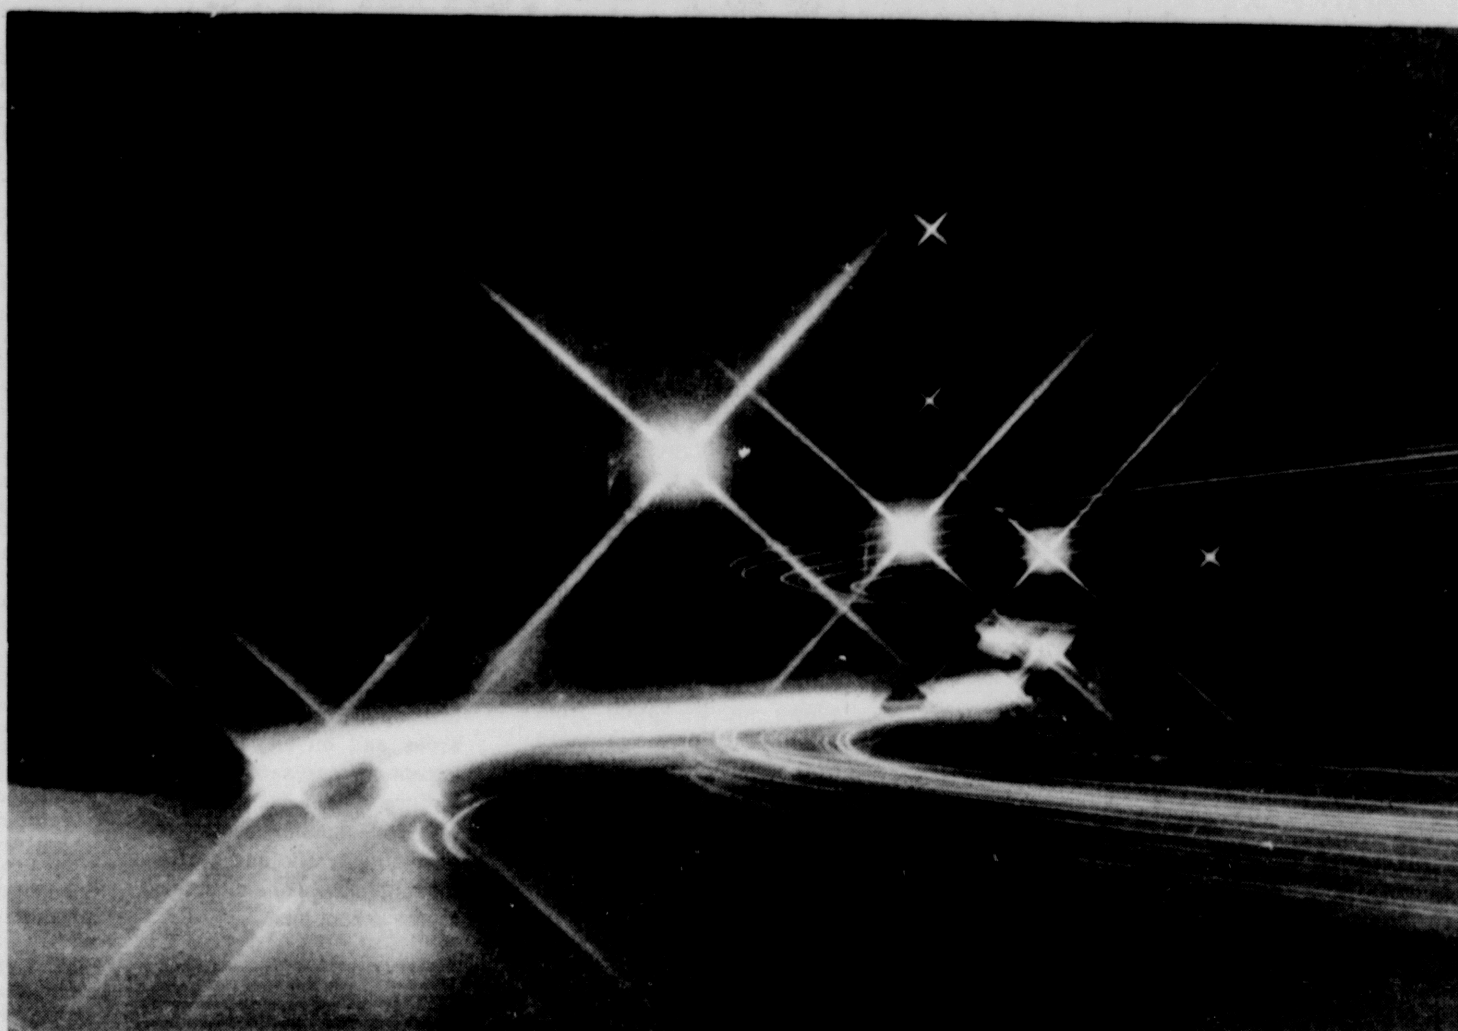

"In fact," he said, "we would have had a tremendous increase in school taxes without this new bill." He has told school trustees that the district needs a "cushion" fund to bridge the gap at the beginning of the school year when bills have to be paid before state funds come in September.

The bill also contained provisions for increases in teachers salaries, with beginning teachers with a bachelors degree being increased to $8460; and to $13,254 for teachers with 17 years or more experience with a bachelors degree. Beginning teachers are now receiving $8000 and others $11,780.

Beginning teachers with a masters degree will receive $9024, increased from $8600 and others with 19 years or more experience will go from $12,780 to $14,382.

State funding for transportation will increase 7.1 percent for the district, and the measure provides some authority to collect for specified student fees.

The final version of the bill as passed by the Senate and House cut the number of days for student instruction from 180 to 175, with 10 days for in-service teacher training. Cameron schools will open on August 29, Dulin said, and he plans to present a revised school calendar at the August board meeting.

A TIME EXPOSURE at the bend of Highway 36 near the railroad overpass presents a different aspect on a dark night, as street, car and truck lights combine to make a sparkling pattern.

Charter Studied

A citizens charter committee is busy in committee work drafting a new home-rule charter for Rockdale which will go under city council scrutiny and then before city voters next April. Rockdale's document is being drafted after a section-by-section study of a number of city home-rule charters, including those of Nassau Bay, Round Rock, Cameron, Luling and Georgetown.

Family Drowns In Lake

The bodies of a Tomball couple and their son were taken from Lake Somerville over the weekend, the three apparently having drowned last Saturday evening at Welch Park. High winds hit the park area about 6 p.m. Saturday causing already rough waters at the lake to become especially treacherous. The sheriff believed this is about the time when the drownings took place.

Tax Increase Expected

Belton's school business manager told the school board that a 10 to 12 percent tax increase can be expected next year. Until more figures come from the state legislature, Belton will begin school budget planning on an anticipated $142,400 state increase and a $64,600 local fund increase for next year, the manager reported.

Muniz Found Guilty

Pedro Cruz Muniz was found guilty last Tuesday of capital murder after a seven-day trial in Georgetown. The verdict means that Muniz, 20, must be sentenced to either life imprisonment or death. The defendant had tears running down his cheeks as he was convicted of the rape and murder of a 19-year-old Southwestern University coed in Georgetown last December.

County Beef Checkoff Vote Fails

Milam County beef producers voted against the creation of a national beef board in a nationwide referendum which ended July 15.

Vote was 184 against and 117 for, according to the County ASCS office, where producers voted.

The vote in Texas was 19,305 for and 12,045 against. The referendum failed in Texas because two-thirds (20,910) of the votes would have had to been for it.

The final national totals for the beef referendum, which had to pass by a two-thirds majority, were being tabulated in Washington Friday, but some observers said it would be defeated. The Milam County ASCS office said it would have final figures next week.

Jay naman, president of the Texas Farmers Union, said, "We are pleased that the cattle producers in Texas have voted to reject this program, not because we are against the cattle industry but because we do not think this program is the solution.

"Any promotional plan which spends millions of dollars from the pockets of producers must be accountable to those producers. The cattlemen of Texas have obviously affirmed the fact that they do not want this program as it is written."

James Sartwelle, chairman of the Texas Beef Development Task Force, said he was disappointed with the outcome but praised the overall turnout.

"I think it was a great victory in that respect," he said. "After all, the president of the United States is sometimes elected by one percent."

Sartwelle said he thought it was "a crying shame" that proponents couldn't muster another 1,600 votes statewide.

County School Job May Be Cut Off

A smooth transition in taking over administrative duties by the Buckholts and Gause schools is expected by the Milam County school superintendent if his job is abolished at the end of 1978.

Max McClaren, who has been county superintendent for eight years, said his job may be in jeopardy due to the general appropriations bill passed by the Texas legislature.

The bill, passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Dolph Briscoe, provides for funds for the county superintendents only through the end of 1978, the end of the current elected term of the county superintendents.

"I don't know what the intent of the legislature was," McClaren said, "but it certainly would do away with the office of the county superintendent."

McClaren said his office has been working with the superintendents of the Gause and Buckholts schools and feels the transition will be smooth if they have to take over full administrative duties at the end of 1978.

Day Care Center In Rockdale Draws Praise

Saint John's Day Care Center in Rockdale has received certification for meeting state child care requirements necessary for Title XX funding.

In a letter to center director Mrs. Verne Bland, the State Department of Public Welfare commended the staff for its quality care.

"The new facility, equipment, staff training and genuine interest in working with children is a goal that all of you have reached," the letter stated.

The day care center, located in the Aycock Center in Rockdale, serves children from Rockdale, Cameron, and other areas in the county.

SERVICE AWARD- Johnny Yates, left, maintenance technician, is shown receiving his 25 year service award from Joe G. Hanover, district engineer of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Yates, who is a Maysfield resident, has spent his entire career in Milam County. In presenting the award Hanover praised Yates for his dedication and service to the Department.

Neutron Decision

The President has asked Congress to approve funds for possible production of neutron warheads, but is reserving final judgment on whether to produce the weapon. In his July 12 news conference, President Carter said that his final decision will be based on a detailed review.

Q: Is the neutron warhead actually a "neutron bomb"?

A: The neutron warhead is not a bomb, but a warhead for a missile. It is designed for the Lance missile, which has a 70 mile range. The missile is particularly important to NATO's arsenal.

Q: How does the neutron warhead differ from conventional warheads?

A: The neutron is an enhanced radiation warhead. Its purpose is to increase the effect of radiation on a target, while reducing greatly the blast and heat damage to surrounding areas. The radiation is short-lived and territory hit by the neutron can be reoccupied in a relatively short period. The effects of blast and heat, however, which stand out nuclear weapons extend beyond the radiation effects and often to civilian areas, are contained in a smaller radius, within the target area.

Q: Why do opponents say the neutron warhead would be dangerous to have in our arsenal?

A: Both those for and against the neutron agree that it is more effective than other nuclear weapons against specific clear weapons against specific and defined targets, where it is necessary to limit collateral damage -- for example in NATO. For this reason opponents worry the U.S. would be more tempted to use this weapon, when we might not otherwise resort to nuclear weapons.

At his July 12 press conference the President pointed out that "... we have an adequate force strength in NATO to stop invasion from the Warsaw Pact forces without the use of atomic weapons." He said that the use of any nuclear weapon in a horrifying prospect, and is aware of the dangers of first use of atomic weapons of any kind.

In a July 11 letter to Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi, the President said "the decision to use nuclear weapons of any kind, including ER (enhanced radiation or neutron warhead) weapons, would remain in my hands, not in the hands of local theater commanders. Admission to cross the nuclear threshold would be the most agonizing decision to be made by any President. I can assure you that these weapons would not make that decision any easier. But by enhancing deterrence, they would make it less likely that I would have to face such a decision."

Q: Why might the President decide to produce the neutron warhead?

A: The neutron warhead could well reduce the chances of war by acting as a deterrent against such attack. The nature of the weapon would make it less damaging to one's own territory. If NATO arsenals contained the neutron warhead, opposing countries would be aware of NATO's ability to defend itself with less damage. This could be a deterrent to attack. The President said in his news conference that, "The ownership of atomic weapons and their potential use is such a horrifying prospect that it is a deterrent to a major confrontation between nations who possess atomic weapons."

Q: Why did the President ask Congress to approve production funds for the neutron warhead before he decides whether to deploy the warhead?

A: The President believed the money should be authorized so that production will not be delayed in the event that he decides to go ahead. If he decides not to authorize production, the money would, of course, not be spent.

Q: Will the neutron weapon decision affect the SALT talks?

A: The neutron warhead is in no way a threat to progress in SALT because it is a short range, tactical weapon, not a strategic weapon, and tactical weapons are not included in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

Q: Some reports maintain that the neutron weapon kills people and simply leaves buildings intact. What sense does it make to be concerned with buildings and not people?

A: The reduced blast and heat of the neutron warhead would reduce destruction of buildings, but they minimize civilian deaths from these effects as well. The neutron is designed precisely to obtain the lowest level of damage and risk to our own forces, and civilians, while intensifying radiation effects on a well-defined target. As the President noted in his news conference, "the destruction that would result from the explosion of a neutron warhead is much less than the destruction from an equivalent weapon of other (nuclear) types."

(The estimated neutron-warhead destruction is only one tenth as great.)

Professional For All Seasons

The Texan goes to Washington again or commutes this time to assume the job of chief investigator for the House Ethics Committee.

Leon Jaworski, Houston attorney, former Watergate and Nuremberg War Crimes chief prosecutor, returns to begin investigation of South Korean influence deals in Congress.

Now 71 and possibly the most experienced non-government prosecutor in the Western World, Jaworski has received a resolution of independence from the House Ethics Committee and announced plans to see this inquiry through, wherever it may lead.

He tells the press he goes into the job with no notion of who or what may be involved in a controversy which preliminary investigations say touch as many as 115 incumbent or former congressmen.

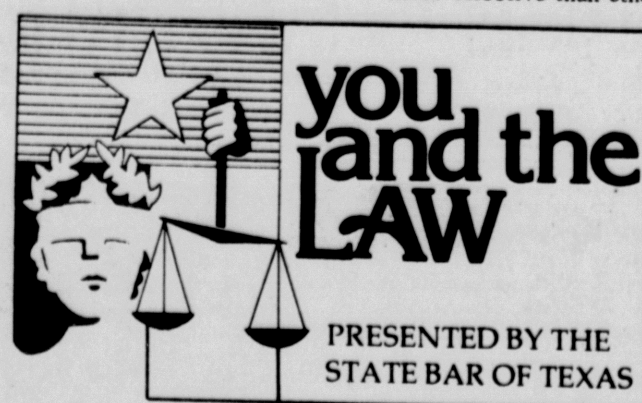

This remarkable man has taken active leadership in Texas education and legal controversies since returning from duty as prosecutor for the Allies in the historic trials of Nazi war leaders. He has chaired about every legal organization in the nation.

While Archibald Cox was fired by a Nixon Administration which Jaworski finally took before the U. S. Supreme Court, the Houston lawyer cleared the immense pressures of the controversy which brought the first resignation of an incumbent President.

Of the job, Jaworski says: "Politics doesn't make any difference to me. . . If there's a crook involved, I want to bring him out because I despise crooks. I think the matter of whether one is a Republican or a Democrat should be laid aside."

A Democrat, Jaworski is more a definitive profile of a professional "for all seasons."

Q: I've been divorced for over a year. I don't know the whereabouts of my ex-wife and my two children, so I don't know where to send child support payments or how to visit my children. What happens if my ex-wife files a petition to terminate my parental rights?

A: Anyone who is sued for the purpose of terminating their legal rights as a parent must be notified before the suit can be tried. The law allows an exception from this notification requirement if the parent bringing the suit testifies that the other parent's whereabouts are unknown; in this case, notification would be attempted by publication.

Q: When my husband died, our house became my home-stead, although I'm not living in it at the present time. Now that his daughter by a previous marriage has reached the age of 18, can she make me sell the house in order to get cash for her share of the house?

A: So long as a widow's right to a homestead has not been abandoned by the widow, she cannot be forced to sell it to accomplish a division of the property for the benefit of a step-child. The widow's right to the homestead allows her to use it during her lifetime with the remainder passing after her death to the late husband's children or their descendants.

Q: Our daughter died without a will and is survived by her husband and two small children. Their father won't let us see them at all. Is there any way we can see these children? And, who handles the estate the children should receive?

A: Any grandparent has the right to petition the district court in the county where the grandchild resides in order to obtain visitation rights. To do so, the grandparent asks to be named as a possessory conservator of the child and asks the court to compel the managing conservator, who in this case apparently is the child's father, to make the child available for visitation. The duty of managing the child's estate is placed on the managing conservator.

Q: I will leave an estate of about $35,000 in savings accounts owned jointly with my son, plus a house owned solely by me. My will provides for him to inherit everything and to serve as executor of my estate. Does such a will have to go through probate, or is there a less expensive form of transferring ownership?

A: If the joint savings accounts transfers the ownership of the entire account to the survivor in the event one of the two persons owning the account should die, it would not be included in the probate estate. The title to a house may be established by use of a shortened form of probate, if that is the only property ownership to be transferred.

The Scarce Coffee Bean

Coffee by the ton is about half the price it reached in mid-April when the London terminal price climbed to $6,800 a ton.

It is now $3,655 a ton and likely headed lower.

Shelf prices will eventually reflect this dramatic drop though it is still selling from about $3.50 to $4 a pound.

One U. S. coffee trader said the price collapse finally proved coffee won't sell for $4 a pound and that housewives are the smartest traders, stocking up until they now control "a pretty good inventory."

The price ascended when Brazil's 1976 coffee crop was about three-quarters frost-bitten in July, 1975.

Supply and demand finally worked the price down. People either drank alternative substances or less of the coffee.

It's only another proof that consumers can influence the marketplace when it seems beyond any normal influence these days.

Gravity affects even the scarce coffee bean.

"Low Down"
FROM THE Congressional Record
By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BILL BROWBEATS HOMEOWNERS

REP. ROBERT J. LAGOMARSINO (Calif.) "The Ventura Star Free Press recently described legislation which would ban by 1980 the sale of any residence that did not measure up to still unspecified insulation standards as 'just plain dumb.' I insert the short editorial in the Record." (The condensed editorial follows.)

Another Plain Dumb Bill

If it's true that the devil makes use of idle hands, then perhaps it's also true that the joker makes use of idle minds.

It certainly would seem to be true of Congress, which left to its own devices demonstrates a remarkable penchant for silliness.

Sometimes though, the legislative wonders are just plain dumb. That certainly is the case with a bill recently approved by a House subcommittee.

It would ban--by either 1980 or 1982--the sale of any residence that did not measure up to as yet unspecified insulation standards. We're not talking about homes that are built in 1980 or 1982. Instead, we're talking about homes we live in today, and that we might want or need to sell three, five or seven years from now. Such sales would be banned by making unavailable any form of federally backed housing loans. Beyond that, any lending institution that is backed in any way by any federal agency would be barred from financing such transactions--and that means just about all of them.

Of course, there are all sorts of qualifications that would exempt the poor and who knows who else from the insulate-or-else ultimatum. And once again the heaviest burden would fall on the family in the middle-whose equity in the home is probably its biggest asset, who has recognized mortgage payments as a kind of forced savings account that can be drawn on, with interest at a later date.

But to subject Americans to the kind of Big Brother browbeating that this kind of legislation represents is totally unwarranted and is an affront to the principle that government exists to serve the people not vice versa.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOT COMMENT

The American College Dictionary defines Dumb, as Stupid; Dull-witted. The members of the House subcommittee who approved this bill, without a doubt, qualify.

WATER FACTS AND FANCIES

How To Conserve Water

The public can save millions of gallons of water every day by following simple conservation practices. It's not that we should use less water, according to the American Water Works Association, we should fight water waste.

1. Check every faucet in your home for leaks. Just a slow drip wastes 15 to 20 gallons a day.
2. Put a bit of food coloring in the toilet tank to see if it's leaking into the bowl. Leaky toilets are among the home's worst water wasters.
3. Don't shower too long or fill the tub too full. Five minutes for showering and about five inches in the tub is plenty.
4. Use automatic dish and clothes washing machines with full loads only.
5. Water lawns and gardens with good sense. Do it early or late, not in mid-day heat. See that the water goes where it should, not on sidewalks or driveways. And don't leave sprinklers on too long.

Remember, a single lawn sprinkler spraying 50 gallons per minute uses 50 per cent more water in one hour than a combination of 10 toilet flushes, two five-minute showers, two dishwasher loads, and a full load of clothes.

Use water wisely, the American Water Works Association urges. Don't let it go to waste.

TO WED - Mr. and Mrs. Julius L. Harwell of Cameron announce the engagement of their daughter Karen Marguerite, to Joseph John Trdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Trdy of Cameron. The couple plans an August 27 wedding at the First Baptist Church in Cameron.

"YOU DON'T HAVE TO CLIMB A MOUNTAIN TO GAIN ENLIGHTENMENT."

Just send away for the Consumer Information Catalog and a key to enlightenment will appear in your mailbox.

The Consumer Information Catalog is put out by the Federal Government. And it lists over 200 of their booklets that you can send away for. Most are free. And they can help you with things like how to buy a home, how to grow vegetables, how to deal with headaches, simple plumbing repairs and many other everyday and not-so-everyday problems.

So if you wish to learn about the mystic sensibilities of the wayward ancients, put on your climbing gear.

But, if you wish to know about how to fix a leaky faucet, send for the catalog. Write: Consumer Information Center, Dept. A, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Remember, it's free. Which is only right. After all, the first step towards enlightenment shouldn't enlighten your pocketbook.

James McElreath To Race At TWS

College Station, Texas...James McElreath of Arlington, Texas, the son of veteran United States Auto Club driver Jim McElreath has officially entered the American Parts 200 at the Texas World Speedway in College Station, Sunday, July 31.

Twenty-three year old James started racing working in the pits for his Dad at the age of 14 he entered his first sprint car race at the age of 16 at the Devil's Bowl Speedway in Dallas. In 1973 he was voted Texas Central Racing Association's most improved driver.

In 1974, James McElreath won a total of 22 features in Texas, Oklahoma, Alabama, and Louisiana. Also that year he was the Devils Bowl Speedway sprint and supermodified champion. Another good year for James McElreath when he finished first in 20 features and repeated as Devils Bowl sprint champion. He finished second in the super-modified point standings. James continues to campaign the sprint machinery racking up wins in Florida, Louisiana, and Indiana including the nationally televised Hulman Classic Sprint Car race in Terre Haute in May.

McElreath moved to the Indy or Championship circuit fielding an Offenhauser powered Gurney-Eagle for the Texas Grand Prix at Texas World Speedway this last April. He finished a commendable seventh. The next Indy car contest saw the young Texan gather in another seventh place finish this time at Trenton New Jersey. Following Trenton the McElreaths ran into a bit of hard luck.

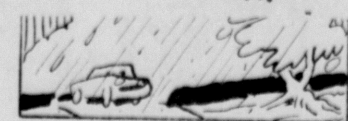

Shortly before Indy young James received severe injuries to his right hand in a "freak" accident while loading his sprint

The Gurney Eagle sponsored by the AMAX Coal Company of Indianapolis is now being readied for the July 31st American Parts 200 at Texas World Speedway.

The weekend activities begin with Indy car practice on Saturday, July 30th. Once again Speedway will provide a live on stage concert, "The Battle of the car for a race at Indianapolis, he was not able to qualify but a month later Jim and James McElreath became the first father-son team to enter a 500 mile Championship event. sylvania Saturday night. Time trials will begin at 11:00 a.m. Sunday, July 31st with the 200 mile Championship event starting.

Baseball Roundup

The Minor League White Sox team has had a season of hard work but much fun.

The team got off to a start with a home made ice cream party after the first weeks practice. Refreshments were furnished by the coaches.

Beating the Bombers for the first time was topped off with hot dogs and drinks after the game hosted by the coaches.

The next week, everyone enjoyed a second ice cream party after a hot practice given by Coach Seth Dockery and Thomas Shoguit.

About mid-season, the team was given a pizza party at the City park. Hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Nitoto Martinez, parents of James Florez. Drinks were furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Barley.

Later after beating the Yankees and clinching first place, Mr. Bartley treated hot dogs and drinks after the game.

After beating the Lions the third time, the parents surprised each boy with a blue and white shirt stating "White-Sox #1" on the back.

On Monday, July 11, the boys and their families enjoyed hot dogs and home made ice cream at a picnic in Ledbetter Park.

Topping off the season was the introduction of the boys and presentation of the 1st place trophies at the Wednesday night All-Star game. Afterwards each boy was given a large 7-11 "Slush" certificate, a gift of Mrs. L.J. Matula.

The White Sox coaches are Griffin Barrett, Jim Camp and Seth Dockery. They want to again thank each parent for their extra time and interest given to the team and to their son and this helping greatly to make them #1.

STILL READY TO FIGHT - This old 1934 Chevrolet fire truck is no longer used by the Florence Volunteer Fire Department, but it's still ready to go out and fight fires. It was bought new by Florence in 1934 and according to Florence fire chief Jerry Smith, "It still purrs like a kitten." The truck has an ingenious water delivery system. The steel tank in the bed of the truck was filled with a solution of water and baking soda. A compartment in the top of the tank was filled with acid. When the volunteers were called on to put out a fire, they would drive to the scene and flip the tank over. The resulting mixture of soda and acid would create enough pressure in the tank to drive the whole mess (water, soda and acid) out of the tank, through the fire hose and, hopefully, onto the fire.

GOP Group Elects Head

W.C. "Bill" Lust of Tyler, Republican county chairman in Smith County, was elected president of the newly-formed Texas Republican County Chairman's Association at its July 16-17 organizational meeting in Austin.

The new association, authorized by State Republican Executive Committee action earlier this year, has been formed to provide better communication between GOP county organizations throughout the State.

In commenting on the formation of TRCCA, Republican State Chairman Ray Hutchinson said, "We have long needed a channel for discussion of programs, both successful and unsuccessful, between our chairmen. We feel this can be beneficial in those district races where more than one county is involved."

Other officers elected were Bill Perrin of Brownsville, county chairman in Cameron County, vicepresident; Mrs. Nancy Canion of League City, chairman in Galveston County, secretary; Bill Cooper of Clyde, chairman in Calahan County, treasurer; and Mrs. Jacque Allen of Wichita Falls, chairman in Wichita County, the TRCCA representative and spokesman on the State Republican Executive Committee.

The newly-elected officers held a meeting with Hutchinson and GOP Vice-Chairman Polly Sowell on Sunday following the close of the meeting to discuss plans for the group's future activities.

Outstanding Republicans who spoke to the group during the meeting were former Governor John Connally, United States Senator John Tower, Congressman Bill Archer of Houston, Congressman Jim Collins of Dallas and James A. Baker III of Houston, former Under Secretary of Commerce and the chairman of the President Ford Committee during the 1976 election.

Farmers Union Hails Beef Assessment Defeat

Key cattle producers who serve on the Livestock Commodity Council of Texas Farmers Union have commended Texas producers for voting down an assessment on all cattle sales for funding beef research and promotion. Meeting in Dallas for the purpose of investigating alternate cattle marketing concepts and the possibilities for more market power, the Farmers Union members were quick to point out that they are certainly not opposed to research and promotion.

"On the contrary," said one council member, "we are here today looking hard at the factors which we believe are most important in solving the adverse conditions in our business: cattle numbers, supply and price stability for feedgrains and marketing techniques."

The livestock council members also announced that they are urging representatives of all Texas cattle organizations to join in a goal meeting which is being discussed now that the beef referendum has been defeated.

Woman Sentenced For Fraud

E.B. Oldham, manager of the Fempic social security office announced another conviction and sentencing in social security's crackdown on fraud in the SSI program.

Oldham stated that Mary J. Curley, 24, of Granado, Arizona, who in May pled guilty to fraudulently receiving $2,699 in SSI payments in 1974 and 1975, was sentenced by Federal Judge Walter E. Craig in U.S. District Court in Phoenix, Arizona to a three-year suspended sentence with probation, and ordered to make restitution.

He said that Curley was indicted when an employee in the five-state Dallas region of Social Security discovered that she was employed full-time, but has failed to report her income to the Social Security Administration, which administers the federally-funded SSI program.

"In January, 1975," Oldham said, "Miss Curley was specifically asked by social security about any employment, and denied working."

Oldham stated that while Social Security employees have a primary responsibility to help people claim their rightful benefits, they also have a responsibility to assure that non-entitled individuals do not receive SSI payments. He said that a number of other cases of suspected SSI fraud were under active investigation in the Southwest Region.

2 Alcoas Promoted At Rockdale

Two new unit supervisors have been announced at Alcoa's Rockdale Works.

M.C. (Carol) Wise of Gause has been promoted from millwright to unit supervisor for the north plant. Carl Larson of Taylor has been promoted from head tapper carbon changer to potroom unit supervisor in line 5.

Wise, a native of Cameron, joined Alcoa at Rockdale in 1952, shortly after metal production began at the plant in November, 1952. He progressed year. Wise is an Air Force veteran, having served from 1953 to 1955. He and his wife, Bessie, have three daughters and two sons.

Larson, a native of Coupland, joined Alcoa at Rockdale in 1969 as a production helper. Subsequent assignments were potman and tapper carbon changer in the Potrooms. He and his wife, Dolores, have three sons. They reside at 1305 Porter Street in Taylor.

Man's future 'up in the air'

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Mankind's future is up in the air, a University of Texas astronomer believes.

Dr. Harlan Smith predicts that on a timetable of three to 25 years man will be colonizing space — beginning with the use of "erector-set technology" to build lightweight orbiting solar power satellites (to harness the energy of the sun and beam it back to earth) and continuing to huge earth-orbiting space colonies with trees, birds, streams, shopping centers, homes and wilderness areas.

The habitats Dr. Smith envisions for community living in space would be structures perhaps as large as five miles in diameter and 50 miles in length.

ENERGY-SAVING IDEA

Encouraging News About What's Being Done

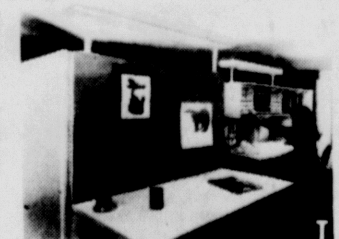

An old kind of lighting used in a new way is doing a lot to lighten the energy—and economic burden—of many of America's offices. Today, lighting systems can combine overhead and "task lighting" to improve the quality of light you get while reducing the quantity. Because the light has been placed closer to the work area, less can do more.

One architect has estimated that this can cut energy requirements by 40 to 60 percent. In addition, it reduces glare, eyestrain and odd reflections, and it doesn't add as much heat as traditional lighting, so it's less of a strain on air conditioning.

The acoustical values in the office are improved too, since few if any luminaires—that bounce back noise—are in the ceiling area.

Besides the energy savings, construction costs are also minimized because fixtures do not have to be installed in a rigid structure. They're designed by the Architectural Systems Division (ASD Group) of Westinghouse Electric Corporation to fit the open office environment in which panels and screens are used instead of walls.

The lighting fixtures are simply mounted in the tops of ASD Group work station panels or are integrated under shelves and cabinets.

This makes for a system that can be easily moved—at low cost—when the office layout is changed. And it's a system that the people who work with it and pay for it really appreciate.
